Life in all its Fullness

19th March 2018

Dear Parent / Carer,

Next week is World Autism Awareness Week. On Wednesday 28th March we will be having Autism Day at school to help our children understand what Autism is. Throughout the day we will be teaching the children about autism including what it means and the difficulties some autistic people might face.

We would like the children to wear something yellow on this date to help raise awareness of Autism. Without awareness and understanding of autism, autistic people and their families are at risk of being isolated. As a school we would like to do our best to prevent this from happening.

For more information about Autism please see <http://www.autism.org.uk/>

Thank you for your support.
